The Welsh Green dragon has skin which is a blend of different greens to allow it to camouflage itself with the lush green grass of its homeland. Its eyes are blazing green and its claws are razor sharp. The tail of a Welsh Green is covered in dangerous spikes which it whips about crazily to defend itself. This breed of dragon likes to prey on sheep and cattle. It wouldn't eat a human unless it was provoked. It will also feed on creatures found in the water and enjoys munching on birds' eggs. You will find the Welsh Green in mountainous areas which are rocky and cold. It doesn't like company so tends to nest in remote areas so it's not bothered. Its nest will be somewhere sheltered and is usually made of twigs, leaves and bones and padded with sheep wool. It is the largest breed of dragon and has the longest fire breathing range of all the dragons. Incredibly, it can shoot balls of fire from its eyes. It has amazing hearing and can hear a heart beating from over 10 miles away!
